Projects

- Sudoku Game: Practice recursion and backtracking.
  - Developed a code that solves Sudoku puzzles automatically. It works by trying a number, and if that number causes a problem later, it backtracks and tries another.
  - This taught me how to think through problems logically and write organized, easy-to-follow instructions and skills that help in any job that requires attention to detail.
- Library Management System: algorithms Track books, issue dates and student returns using Fine io.
  - I created a system that tracks borrowed books, due dates and late fines. Everything gets saved to a file, so information loss doesn't occur when you close the program.
  - This project helped me understand how real systems handle customer records, transactions and updates without making mistakes.
